SATURDAY, JANUARY 5, 1745.

AT a Juncture like this, when the Want of Mails renders it impoſſible to ſupply the Publick with freſh Intelligence, it may not be amiſs to throw together a few Reflections on the laſt Advices we have receiv'd from Abroad; in order to anticipate, as far as lies in our Power, ſome Part of that ence which the next Change of the Winds muſt s. In all Probability we ſhall hear of new Stirs North, where the Imperial Miniſter, Count Bu- Orders to preſs his Swediſh Majeſty for a Corps iliaries in the Spring; and, perhaps, we may hear flattering Addreſſes paid to the Court of Moſ- ut it is not very likely that theſe Artifices ſhould any very conſiderable Effect. Becauſe, in the ce, the Northern Courts are very well ſatisfied nce has nothing but her own Intereſt in View, he pretends to purſue only theirs; and, in the ce, they are ſenſible that their Remittances very ew that the French are, in a great Meaſure, d. By it is not, however, impoſſible, that theſe ions may be drawn into a conſiderable Length, definitive Anſwer given till the Seaſon of Action es.

y, no doubt, both Armies will be glad to betake es to Winter Quarters, where Prince Lobkowitz find Recruits, and be in a Condition to harraſs h Army, as much in their Retreat, as they have e him in his. The Court of Naples will, in hood, employ the Winter in the Detection of rreſpondencies that induced an Invaſion in the ; and in providing againſt the bad Effects of al Diſcontent that reigns among the Subjects Kingdom. The King of Sardinia, on the other ill have a more pleaſing Employment; that of his juſt Senſe of the Fidelity and Conſtancy by all Ranks of his People, and in rewarding his Officers as diſtinguiſh'd themſelves in the paign, in his Service, againſt the common The Genoeſe will, doubtleſs, make uſe of the granted by the Seaſon, to put themſelves in Poſture of Defence by the Spring, unleſs, which ople ſuſpect, they ſhould be ſecured from all ions, by a new Treaty with his Sardinian Ma- Stroke of more Advantage, perhaps, than the a Victory.

lpoia, November 8. Monday laſt, at the Court nd Terminer held here, the Indian, Muſhmelon, der'd Armſtrong the Trader, and his Men, re- tence of Death, having confeſſed the Fact.

ve Advice, that Captain Whitepain, who was e from Dublin with 140 Servants and Paſſengers, ſpoke with off this Coaſt the Beginning of Sep- t, being without a Rudder, and ever ſince miſ- ſing, was taken a few Days after by a Spaniſh Privateer, and carried to the Havanna; from whence he came away in a Flag of Truce to Boſton.

Saturday laſt the Marlborough, a fine Ship, deſigned for a Privateer, was launch'd at Burlington, and will be fitted out with all Expedition.

This Morning arrived here a French Prize, taken by the Wilmington, Captain Sibbald. She is a ſmall Sloop, and was bound from Guardaloup to Martinico, having on board 51 Hogſheads of White Sugar, and ſome Barrels of Coffee. As ſhe ſails well, Capt. Sibbald intended to hoiſt her Cargo on board the Wilmington, and make a Tender of her; but a ſmart Gale of Wind coming on, they parted on the 17th of September. The Wilmington was then between Martinico and Marigalant, where ſhe intended to cruize for ſome Days. Capt. Sibbald had been before the Town of Baſſaterre in Guardaloup, and hoiſted a Flag of Truce, and ſent his Boats aſhore with 35 French Priſoners belonging to the Veſſels he had taken. His Lieutenant went up to the Town, to deſire that they would give him Engliſhmen in their Room; but they happen'd to have none on the Iſland, a Flag of Truce having ſail'd a few Days before to St. Kitts. The Lieutenant was kindly treated, and was ordered to tell the Captain, that they were much obliged to him for his Civility to the Priſoners; and that he might Wood and Water, if he pleaſed, without Moleſtation.

Newport, Rhode Iſland, November 16. Laſt Tueſday two of our Privateers, commanded by Captain James Allen and Capt. Marſhal, ſail'd on a Cruize.

Boſton, November 19. Laſt Week arrived from Annapolis Royal, the Province Galley, Brigantine, and Sloop, which we are informed his Excellency, our Governor, upon his receiving Intelligence that Monſieur Duvivier deſign'd to Winter in Menis or Schignecto, with a Detachment of Troops from Louisbourg, in order to draw the Inhabitants off from their Allegiance to his Majeſty, and to bring them to take up Arms againſt the Garriſon, ſent about a Month ago to Annapolis, with a View of ſurprizing, or at leaſt driving off the Enemy, taking Satisfaction of ſuch of the Inhabitants as ſhould be found to have join'd with them, or willingly ſupported them, and demanding Hoſtages for the future Fidelity of the Country: And we now certainly learn by the Captains Tyng and Smethurſt, Commanders of two of the abovementioned Veſſels, that the large French Ship, which enter'd Annapolis Baſon, with an arm'd Brigantine, on the 14th of October laſt, ſuppoſed to be a Man of War of between 30 and 40 Guns, was an old Banker, ſuddenly vampt up, and fitted out from Louisbourg, with about 24 Guns, and ſome Troops on board; upon the Receipt of Monſieur Duvivier's late Letter to the Governor of Cape-Breton, to make an Attempt upon the Garriſon, in Conjunction with M. Duvivier's Troops and Indians; and that upon the two Donnell's being taken by the French Veſſels, Monſieur La Ronde, who commanded the French Ship, found a Letter on board one of them, from our Governor, to Col. Maſcarene; giving him an Account, that he deſign'd to ſend the before-mentioned Veſſels upon the aforeſaid Expedition; upon diſcovering of which, and finding that M. Duvivier had retreated from the Fort, upon Capt. Gorham's Arrival there with his Indian Rangers, the French Veſſels were in the utmoſt Impatience to get out of the Baſon, having quarrel'd with their Pilot for not inſtantly venturing to go out, and going out at laſt with a foul Wind: That our Veſſels being apprized by his Excellency, that they would probably find a French Ship, Brigantine, and Sloop, at Annapolis; having had Intelligence of ſuch Veſſels being ſeen to ſtand up the Bay of Funda, by a Marblehead Fiſherman, had made all the neceſſary Diſpoſitions for attacking the Ship upon their entering the Baſon; but did not arrive there till four Days after they were gone.

They inform us alſo of the following Circumſtance. One of Capt. Gorham's Pigwacket Indians, having been taken by the Enemy in a ſmall Skirmiſh; and being examined concerning the Condition of our Forces, told M. Duvivier that he had taken a Survey of his Camp the Night before; and that he had a Brother, who, with 60 more Indians, was that Day gone out a Wooding with Capt. Gorham, and would, upon their Return, take the firſt Opportunity of ſurprizing his Camp by Night; and that M. Duvivier thereupon kept watch himſelf every Night; after that, the Cape-Sable Indians inſiſting upon killing the Pigwacket Indian, M. Duvivier gave him up to them to do what they would with him; but that he having ſeveral Relations among the St. John's Indians, thoſe Indians threaten'd, if the Cape-Sable Indians kill'd him, that they would fall upon them; and the Diſpute between the two Tribes concerning it, was ſo ſharp, that they both drew off in Parties, very diſcontented with each other, and with M. Duvivier, who is certainly returned, for the preſent, with his Troops to Louisbourg. And upon the whole of our Advices, we are aſſured, that this is the third Time of the Garriſon's being ſaved from the Enemy this Summer, by the Succours ſent from this Province.

Capt. Gorham, we are aſſured, is become the Terror both of the Enemy Indians, and French Inhabitants; which latter, we are in hopes, upon M. Duvivier's having retreated to Louisbourg, and the French Sea-Armaments quitting the Baſon of Annapolis, ſo precipitately upon the News of our Guard la Coſtas being coming there upon the intended Expedition, may be kept in their Fidelity, which, it is certain, the French at Louisbourg, had much at Heart to have ſhaken, and forc'd, or inveigled the Inhabitants into a Revolt, which, if they had compaſs'd, the Garriſon muſt have been brought into the utmoſt Danger.
